Correct Answer: C (Novice)

Explanation:

The term that best describes a person who has just started learning is “Novice.” A novice refers to an individual who is new to a particular skill, activity, or field of study. It indicates someone who has limited experience and knowledge in a specific area and is in the early stages of learning and development.

A novice is often characterized by their lack of proficiency or expertise compared to more experienced individuals. They are beginners who are just beginning to acquire the fundamental skills, techniques, and understanding necessary to advance in their chosen field. Novices typically require guidance, instruction, and practice to enhance their abilities and gain proficiency.

While a novice may have enthusiasm and potential, they are still in the early stages of their learning journey. With time, dedication, and continuous practice, novices have the potential to progress and become more proficient in their chosen area of study or skill.

It is important to note that the term “novice” is not limited to a particular field or domain. It can be used to describe individuals who are starting to learn anything new, whether it be a hobby, sport, profession, or academic discipline.
