

According to an early definition that kind of management which conducts a business or affairs by standards

According to stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed through the discovery of the stablished by falls or destroyed the stablished by falls or destroyed through the stablished by the s kind of management which conducts a business or affairs by standards established by facts or truth gained through systematic observation experiments or reasoning is known as?

- A. Classical management
- B. Bureaucratic management
- C. Neo-classical management
- D. Scientific management