

According to humanists approach, the management scientist's system is incomplete because?

According to humanists approach, the management scientist's system is incomplete because?

- A. it fails to factor in the variable of environment and instability
- B. it fails to account for the variable of uniquely human qualities such as genius and despair
- C. it gives too much emphasis to the variable of uniquely human qualities
- D. it does not consider quantifiable and measurable variables