

Developmental psychologists believe that two factors that influence human development are:

Developmental psychologists believe that two factors that influence human development are:

- A. Motivation and emotion
- B. Self and others
- C. Genetic makes up and experience
- D. Rewards and punishments