FIFA World Cup 2026 Cities

This is a common question Who will host the 2026 World Cup?

The 2026 FIFA World Cup will be the first edition of the tournament to feature 48 teams, up from the current 32-team format. The expanded tournament will feature an additional 16 teams, which will be divided into 16 groups of three teams each. The top two teams from each group will advance to the knockout stage, which will consist of a round of 32, a round of 16, and the quarter-finals, semi-finals, and final.

The expansion of the World Cup to 48 teams was approved by the FIFA Council in 2017 and is intended to increase the number of countries participating in the tournament and to give more teams the opportunity to compete on the global stage. The expanded format will also allow for more matches to be played, which is expected to increase the tournament's economic impact and global reach.

The 2026 FIFA World Cup will be hosted jointly by the United States, Canada, and Mexico, and is expected to be the largest and most widely watched edition of the tournament to date, with an estimated total audience of over 5 billion people.

How many teams will be there in FIFA 2026 World Cup?

It will be the first time that the World Cup will be held in multiple countries since the tournament expanded to 32 teams in 1998.
