Correct Answer: A. Wahdat-ul-Wajood

Explanation

Ibn Arabi is famous for his philosophy of Wahdat-ul-Wajood, which is the Arabic term for "Unity of Being". This concept holds that all things in the universe are essentially one and that there is no separation between the individual self and the divine. Ibn Arabi believed that everything in existence, including human beings, is a reflection of the divine essence and that the ultimate reality is the unity of all things. He also taught that the way to attain spiritual realization and union with the divine was through the practice of Sufism, which involves purifying the heart and striving toward a deeper connection with the divine. The idea of Wahdat-ul-Wajood has had a significant impact on the development of Sufism and has inspired many other thinkers in the Islamic world.
