In Pakistan, the Higher Education Commission (HEC) was established in which Year?

In Pakistan, the Higher Education Commission was established in 2002 as a catalyst for developing a quality research culture in the higher education institutions.

During the last two decades, the higher education sector has given hope to the youth for better opportunities in terms of better jobs in the market.

Over the years, many individuals remained against the reforms the Higher Education Commission introduced and they tried to promote individual cases of failure to divert the attention of the youth and donors from this sector.

It is an established truth that investment made on the youth always repays, as the same has happened in the developed world, which secured progress through research and innovation.
