

Some psychologists consider Stanley Milgram's obedience studies to be unethical because of which ethical consideration?

Some psychologists consider Stanley Milgram's obedience studies to be unethical because of which ethical consideration?

- A. improper sampling procedure
 - B. risk of long-term harm
 - C. clear scientific purpose
 - D. debriefing
-