Correct Answer: D (Universal Declaration of Human Rights)

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) is a document that outlines fundamental human rights that should be universally protected. But what does the acronym UDHR stand for?

Explanation:

The correct answer is D – Universal Declaration of Human Rights. The United Nations General Assembly adopted the UDHR on December 10, 1948, and it serves as a milestone document that proclaims the inalienable rights that every human being is entitled to, regardless of race, gender, religion, language, or any other status. The UDHR is available in more than 500 languages, making it the most translated document in the world.

Option A – Union Declaration of Harassment Rights and Option B – Union Declaration of Human Rights are not correct. While there may be other declarations or documents with similar names, the correct acronym for the document that outlines fundamental human rights is the UDHR.

In conclusion, the correct answer is D – Universal Declaration of Human Rights.
