

What is the full form of ADO?

- A. Agricultural Development Officer
  - B. Assistant District Officer
  - C. Assistant Development Officer
  - D. Administrative Development Officer
- Show Answer...

Correct Answer: C (Assistant Development Officer)

Explanation:

ADO stands for Assistant Development Officer. It is a government job position responsible for implementing various development schemes and programs at the grassroots level. An ADO may work in various fields such as agriculture, rural development, social welfare, and others depending on the department they are appointed to.

In the agricultural sector, an ADO is responsible for promoting sustainable farming practices, educating farmers about new technologies and practices, and implementing various agricultural development schemes at the grassroots level. In the social welfare sector, an ADO may be responsible for implementing various welfare schemes such as pension schemes, disability schemes, and other social security schemes.

In summary, an ADO is responsible for the implementation of various development schemes and programs at the grassroots level. The full form of ADO is Assistant Development Officer.