

When the organization gives the high degree of authority to the top management only for the functions of the

When the organization gives the high degree of authority to the top management only for the functions of the organization, it is best described as?

- A. Centralization of management
 - B. Decentralization of management
 - C. Delegation of authority
 - D. Flatter organizational structure
-