

Where is the Black River Located?

The Black River is a river that flows through multiple countries. Where is the Black River located?

- A. Africa
- B. North America
- C. Europe
- D. South America

Show Answer...

Correct Answer: B (North America)

Explanation:

The Black River is located in North America and specifically flows through the states of New York and Michigan in the United States. The river is approximately 125 miles long and flows into Lake Ontario at Dexter, New York.

It's important to note that there are several other rivers in the world with the name "Black River", so it's important to specify which Black River is being referred to when discussing it. For example, there is also a Black River located in Jamaica, and one in Australia.

In conclusion, the correct answer to this question is B - North America.
