Which SCO member is considering joining despite being a NATO member?

- A. Belarus
- B. Afghanistan
- C. Turkiye
- D. Hungary

Explanation:

Turkiye, a NATO member, is considering joining the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO). Although Turkiye is currently a dialogue partner of the SCO, its interest in full membership highlights the organization's growing geopolitical influence.

Turkiye's Interest in Joining the SCO

Introduction to the Geopolitical Shift

The possibility of Turkiye joining the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) has raised eyebrows across the globe. As a NATO member, Turkiye's interest in the SCO signals a strategic pivot towards greater engagement with Eurasian countries. This move comes amid evolving global alliances and Turkiye's efforts

Which SCO member is considering joining despite being a NATO member? to balance its relationships with both Western and Eastern powers.

Turkiye's Role in the SCO

Turkiye has been a dialogue partner of the SCO since 2012. Its potential full membership would mark a significant development for the organization. As a country that straddles both Europe and Asia, Turkiye's inclusion would enhance the SCO's influence in the region and provide a bridge between Eastern and Western blocs. The nation's participation could also strengthen the SCO's economic and security initiatives, given Turkiye's strategic importance.

Implications for NATO and Global Relations

Turkiye's interest in joining the SCO raises questions about its future role in NATO. While Turkiye remains a key NATO ally, its engagement with the SCO could signal a diversification of its alliances. This potential shift reflects broader trends in global geopolitics, where countries seek to engage with multiple power centers rather than aligning with a single bloc.

Conclusion

Turkiye's consideration of full membership in the SCO, despite its NATO ties, underscores the complex and evolving nature of global alliances. As the SCO continues to expand its influence, the inclusion of a NATO member would be a significant milestone. How Turkiye balances its commitments to both NATO and the SCO will be a critical development to watch in the coming years.
