

Who was the first President of the United States?

Who was the first President of the United States?

- A. Thomas Jefferson
- B. George Washington
- C. Abraham Lincoln
- D. John Adams

Show Answer...

Correct Answer: B (George Washington)

Explanation:

George Washington was the first President of the United States, serving from 1789 to 1797. He was a key figure in the American Revolution and helped to establish the principles of the U.S. Constitution. During his presidency, Washington established many of the traditions and practices that are still in use today, including the precedent of a two-term limit for presidents. His leadership helped to solidify the foundation of the young nation and set it on a path towards growth and prosperity.

Thomas Jefferson was the third President of the United States, serving from 1801 to 1809. He is known for many accomplishments during his presidency, including the Louisiana Purchase and the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

Abraham Lincoln was the 16th President of the United States, serving from 1861 until his assassination in 1865. He led the country through one of its most trying times, the Civil War, and played a key role in ending slavery in the United States.

John Adams was the second President of the United States, serving from 1797 to 1801. He was a key figure in the American Revolution and helped to draft the U.S. Constitution.